

Why must we act now to prevent key parts of this Bill from becoming law?

Because we cannot allow Ofsted to be handed sweeping new powers—backed by Parliament—to enforce its agenda across every school and yeshiva in the UK.

- This Bill would give Ofsted near police-style control, with legal authority to dictate what must be taught—even when it directly contradicts our Torah values.
- Local authorities will be allowed to decide what qualifies as “suitable education,” and even determine who is “fit” to run a school or yeshiva—clearly favouring those who are fully aligned with their worldview.
- They’ve already begun pushing deeply objectionable content in Wales—material that has shocked not only our communities, but many non-Jewish families as well.
- Homeschooling will no longer be a refuge; those who try to opt out will still be forced to teach what Ofsted demands.
- All types of schools—including those in Stamford Hill, Manchester, Gateshead, Edgware, Golders Green—as well as yeshivas nationwide, will be directly affected.

Boys under 16 who wish to enter a yeshiva-style chinuch after this summer may need to leave the country—and even those who remain in the system will face serious and growing threats.
